Miss Lillie Bartram, one of the Cotton Mills' best spinners, had a narrow escape yesterday from serious injury. LINENS OF LUXURY

There's more than money-saving in our linen's; there's luxury in the quality and luxury in the choosing, too. An unprecedented stock in bigness, quality and price.

TABLE LINENS

FOR $1—Naturally a good table damask is expected at this price, but none of such goodness and beauty as this handsome snow white Sa in Damask. Twelve exquisite pateros, seventy-two inches wide. FOR 50c—A small price to pay for all-linen Damask. One instantly thinks of thin quality and narrow width, but we show a substantial Damask, within an inch of being two yards wide; good, solid, heavy.

Unusual values also at 75c, $1.19, $1.41 up to $3.47 yard.

NAPKINS

A half dozen items must hint of a half hundred. For a $1.98 a dozen grass-bleached, German drill Napkins, twenty-two inches square—the sort that gives years of service. Dew-bleached Napkins, twenty-two inches square, a quality that will make friends and buyers at once; they are $2.41 a dozen. At $1 a dozen, heavy, well-made bleached double Damask Napkins from Ireland, with plenty of patterns you will like, twenty-two inches square. They're the kind you'd expect to pay $1.50 for.

GET YOUR TOWEL SUPPLIES NOW

At 10c. Bleached Huckaback, 18x34 inches, hemmed ends, colored or white borders. Large size 18x36 inches, 12½c.

It would be strange if Prof. WILSON's insinuation of WATTERSON should get the Democratic Convention wondering whether the nice old gentleman would not make a pretty good candidate.—Washington Star.

THE WATTERSON-WILSON controversy has given the public a slight glimpse of the Democratic gauge of availability, it being the ability to see a wad without the people being let to the fact that the money comes from the monopolists and like drainers of the purses of the people. The vital question in the light of the mature wad quarrel is whom will the Democrats now be able to get to finance their campaign whatever candidate may be selected?

The Chinese prototype of the Sherman anti-trust law is beautifully brief and simple. It contains but four paragraphs, which are as follows:

"Those who deal with merchants unfairly are to be beheaded.
"Those who interrupt commerce are to be beheaded.
"Those who attempt to close the markets are to be beheaded.
"Those who maintain the prosperity of commerce are to be rewarded."—Brooklyn Eagle.

The agreement is likely to be reached on any tariff revision measure this year. The duties which were established by the act of 1909 will remain unchanged until 1913, at least. Procey halts with that year. If the Republicans should carry the country in 1912 there is a possibility that some tariff changes, based on the reports of the tariff board, may be made next year. On the other hand, if the Democrats should sweep the country a radical revision of all the schedules would probably come.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

A while ago a writer on happiness said that we keep up too much struggle in life; that much of it is a mental struggle. We maintain an attitude of resistance when we do not need to do so. The conclusion reached was not to resist. If you hear a noise in the street, don't resist. Save your mind the strain and yourself the trouble.

Expand and apply this idea. If it rains don't resist; it will rain anyhow. If it snows don't resist; the "beautiful" will come down. If the wind is blowing the dust street at a pace of sixty miles an hour, let her drive; you can't do anything about it. If Medicine Hat sends the mercury below zero, don't fire up your mental system; put it in the furnace. If spring is late, what's the use of remarking about it all the time? WARRIE BARRINGEN, a five-year-old Portsmouth boy, to whom physicians administered antitoxin and whose home was quarantined under the belief he had diphtheria, Saturday ejected a bean that had lodged in his throat. He is recovering.—Portsmouth Times.

THE Lexington Herald, which has to wrestle with the writing of DESHA BRECKINRIDGE and Enoch GREHAN and which formerly had to attack the chirography of Colonel W. P. WALTON, Kill the Proofreader. is having its troubles with the proofreader—that is, it thinks it is. In giving an account of a fire at The Herald plant Saturday night the story said the firemen made the run in ten minutes, when the reporter had written two minutes, and 14.5 degrees above zero appeared in The Herald as 145 degrees above zero, which is some warm, even for Lexington, one of the "warmest" towns on earth.

Monday morning, The Herald published a correction of the error, blamed the mistake, as was perfectly legitimate and proper, on the proofreader, whether he saw it or not, and then concluded the correction with these mystic words:

"The run was made in an incredibly short time and the damage was virtually nothing."

Now if The Herald will explain what the words "incredibly" and "virtually" mean to a wondering public we shall be able to forgive its attack on the proofreader, who, in the hurry of the makeup of Sunday morning, probably never saw the fire story.

Incidentally it is related that one linotyper who got a "take" of Colonel WALTON's copy told the foreman he "couldn't set that stuff, but if somebody would furnish him a trombone he could play it." Our sympathy is with the proofreader in this case.—Winchester Sun-Sentinel.

THE REAL SHOW.

Judge Richard B. Russell of Georgia is known in politics as "Plain Dick" Russell. On the recent election of Governor Hoke Smith to the United States Senate Russell announced himself as a candidate for the soon-to-be-vacated Executive office, for which he is now running with all his might—which is saying a great deal. Besides being a Justice of the Court of Appeals, a well known politician and a prosperous farmer, says The Cosmopolitan Magazine, Judge Russell is the proud father of fourteen children. Having 14 children already, and being superstitious by nature, he was unwilling to risk the unlucky 13, so his last two were twins.

On one occasion Judge Russell took his fourteen children with him to a State Fair, where, among other things, they were exhibiting a two-headed calf as a side attraction. Judge Russell cautiously inquired the price of tickets.

"Ten cents for whole and 5 cents for half tickets, explained the showman.

Brightening perceptibly, "Plain Dick" headed out the money. "Give me one whole and fourteen halves," he said.

The showman eyed him curiously. "Have you fourteen children he asked.

"I have that," replied the Judge.

"Got 'em all wild yet?"

"Plain Dick" pointed proudly to the long row of human steps rising back of him. "There they are," he said, "count for yourself."

Lifting his finger the showman counted one by one.

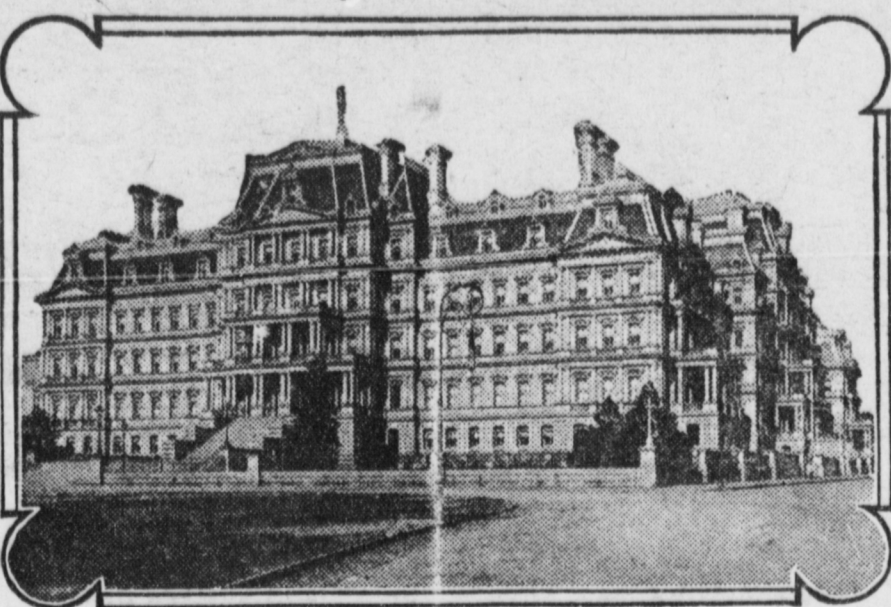

"Mister," he said, "keep your money. Suppose you sell me a ticket, and I'll bring the calf out to see you."

State Department Building

Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation

CAREFULLY guarded in a secluded room on the top floor of the State Department building at Washington, the United States government preserves a large number of the most significant papers and documents which have played a part in the history of the nation. Conspicuous among these relics is the Emancipation Proclamation issued by Abraham Lincoln. Indeed, for that matter, all of the presidential proclamations issued during the past century and a quarter by our more than two dozen chief magistrates are carefully filed away in this storeroom, but it is not too much to say that Lincoln's emancipation proclamation is the most interesting of all these autograph documents of our presidents.

Persons who do not realize how carefully Uncle Sam now guards and preserves his precious documents have to pass out of the state department. There is always a chance of accidental loss when official papers have to pass through many hands, as would be the case were the precious sheets to go to the big bindery, and then, too, it is impossible to ignore an element of danger of theft by a chance dishonest person, for an autograph of Lincoln always commands a big enough price to prove tempting, and the autograph of Lincoln's signature attached to his emancipation proclamation is particularly clear and characteristic.

The issuance of Lincoln's emancipation proclamation was, of course, one of the most important events of his entire administration and the circumstances of the submission of this document for the approval of his cabinet are, as history relates them, among the most dramatic of the entire war period. As the story goes, Lincoln, on this occasion, sent word to the members of his cabinet that he wished to see them. Secretary Chase, the first member to arrive at the White House, found Lincoln reading a book. "Chase, did you ever read this book?" inquired the president. "What book is it?" asked Chase. "Artemus Ward," rejoined Lincoln, "and just let me read you this chapter on Wax Work in Albany." He launched into the amusing volume and read on and on as one after another of the cabinet members joined the circle. Finally, as there appeared to be no prospect of the members began toidget and finally Mr. Stanton intimated rather testily that he had work to do and that if the object in calling the meeting had been to transact any business he would like to have the business presented at once so that he could return to his office. Thereupon Lincoln laid down the open book, opened a drawer, took out a paper that proved to be the emancipation proclamation and prepared to read it to his official family. But before beginning on the contents he looked up for a moment and said: "Gentlemen, I have called you together to notify you what I have determined to do. I want no advice. Nothing can change my mind." After the reading the members filed out in silence, but one, looking back, saw that Lincoln had resumed the perusal of Artemus Ward.

For all that Lincoln seemed thus to take so lightly the significance of this history-making edict there is abundant evidence that in reality not only the consequences but the act itself held large place in his mind, both then and later. The artist, Carpenter, who in 1864 executed for the United States government a large painting representing the reading of the emancipation to the cabinet, found Lincoln occasionally expressed fear lest the future hold for the emancipation proclamation the unlucky fate that threatens our other momentous manuscript, the Declaration of Independence. The latter, be it explained, is in regrettable condition. Indeed, the ink has so faded that, as the only means of staying the ravages of time, the secretary of state has had the document sealed in an air-tight, light-tight safe that may not be opened except upon his written order. However, the condition of the Declaration of Independence is due largely to lack of proper care earlier in its existence and there is little danger that the experiences which the Declaration has undergone will find a sequel in the case of the emancipation proclamation.

For one thing the emancipation proclamation is almost never publicly exhibited and it is never exposed for long intervals to a strong light as some of our other precious documents have been when displayed at exhibitions, etc. On the contrary the emancipation edict is bound, together with other proclamations by Lincoln in a specially designed volume which is just about the best imaginable way to preserve it.

The book in which this epoch-making document has place is one of the most sumptuous volumes which Uncle Sam has ever produced. This deluxe volume is fourteen and one half by seventeen and one-half inches in size so as to accommodate the proclamation without folding and is luxuriously bound in the richest red leather. This gold-edged volume was not prepared, it may be added, in Uncle Sam's regular book bindery attached to the U. S. government printing office but was bound by hand by the expert bookbinders that are kept regularly in the employ of the state department for just such work as this,—that is, the preparation of volumes too elegant to be produced in the routine of a commercial plant.

There was another consideration that prompted the officials of the department of state to have the Lincoln proclamations, including the supreme important one on emancipation, bound by their own experts in their own building. This was the fear lest greatly interested in every detail of the work.

In communities where there is a large colored population each recurring anniversary of the issuance of the emancipation proclamation is made the occasion of a celebration of one kind or another, but it is expected that such commemorative exercises will be much more elaborate than usual this year, owing to the fact that the year 1912 holds the fiftieth anniversary of this event which has been so far-reaching in its consequences. Government officials expect requests that the original emancipation proclamation be loaned for exhibition in connection with some of these semi-centenary programs; but the present intention is not to grant any such requests.

Ohio Has 75,000 Less Acres Than 12 Years Ago—Scientific Care Imperative

E. Shaw, Inspector of Nurseries and Hardwoods of Columbus, says in a recent report:

1. There are 75,000 acres less in apple orchards in Ohio today than twelve years ago. This is a serious situation. This is due to deterioration and destruction of the farm and orchard.

2. The ravages of most insects, pests and fungus diseases are responsible for this loss.
3. Unless farmers begin to spray their orchards, there will be but few of the old ones left in ten years.
4. Don't give up the orchards, and depend upon the market for your fruit. You will not buy enough for your families.
5. Don't let the old orchards become an eyesore on an otherwise up-to-date farm.
6. Spraying is not difficult or mysterious.
7. Give spraying a trial, and begin this year.
8. Many farmers have already begun to spray and they find it pays.
9. The time is at hand when spraying must be given a place along with other farm work.
10. Depend upon the Experiment Station at Wooster, or Department of Agriculture at Columbus for advice upon the subject of spraying.
11. Shoo the tree FAKIR who claims to destroy insects by injecting a fluid into the trunk or roots of trees.
12. Disappointment is sure to follow where the above method is practiced.

13. Get rid of or control San Jose Scale, Coddling Worms, Plum Curculio, Apple Scab, Peach Leaf Curl and Brown Rot. These are some of your worst enemies. It is not a difficult operation.
14. Send to the Department of Agriculture, Columbus, Ohio, or to the Experiment Station, Wooster, O., for a spray calendar. It will tell you how and when.
15. Give the old orchard one more chance. Prune the trees properly.
16. Don't leave stubs when pruning; cut close. Paint the wound.
17. Add some fertility to the soil. Get a good spray pump and plenty of hose, and a bamboo rod.
18. Make your spray solution carefully and properly.
19. Spray thoroughly and at the right time.
20. One good trial of spraying will convince you of its value. You will never again neglect it.

Even a forgetful man seldom forgets about the money you owe him.

Stock Feed Scarce

The farmers of Madison county it is said face a vexing question in regard to stock feed which is exceedingly scarce. The scarcity is claimed to be due principally to the fact that the farmers have turned their attention to the raising of tobacco neglecting other products, such as sugar cane and the like to be used as a roughness for cattle.

CARDUI WORKED LIKE A CHARM

After Operation Failed to Help, Cardui Worked Like a Charm.

Jonesville, S. C.—"I suffered with womanly trouble," writes Mrs. J. S. Kendrick, in a letter from this place, "and at times, I could not bear to stand on my feet. The doctor said I would never be any better, and that I would have to have an operation, or I would have a cancer."

I went to the hospital, and they operated on me, but I got no better. They said medicines would do me no good, and I thought I would have to die.

At last I tried Cardui, and began to improve, so I continued using it. Now, I am well, and can do my own work. I am free of all pains.

Cardui worked like a charm. There must be merit in this purely vegetable, tonic remedy, for women—Cardui—for it has been in successful use for more than 50 years, for the treatment of womanly weakness and disease.

Please try it, for your troubles. N. B.—Write for Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions, and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

ROBBERS LEAVE MEN IN ADAM'S GARB

Strip Bowling Alley Patrons of Clothes in Washroom After Taking Valuables.

Chicago.—The last word in ingenious robbery is to rob and disrobe the victim in a washroom and then leave him shivering in his Adam-like garb, trusting to his natural modesty to prevent him from breaking forth in hot pursuit.

This was tried so successfully a few nights ago that two men—one a detective and the possessor of two revolvers—shivered and shrank up against a wall of a little washroom in Bensinger's bowling alley.

There was one feature of the affair that made it possible for the robbers to escape. It was ladies' night at the bowling alley. The two victims of the robbers peeped from their uncomfortable quarters at the crowd of women at the other end of the alleys, then at their own forms in the mirror.

That was enough. Thomas Fay of 4530 Clifton avenue and James Devury, a Pinkerton detective, were the victims.

Two negroes entered the washroom just as Fay was removing from his face the perspiration acquired in an exciting game. A revolver was thrust to his head and he was compelled to give up a watch and the contents of his pockets—$2.

Then, to guarantee a safe departure, the robbers removed Fay's clothes, also at the point of a revolver. Just then Devury entered and saw Fay, apparently preparing for a cold dry bath. The smile froze on his lips, however, as a revolver was pushed against his own breast. His pockets were emptied.

The two victims shivered and shouted until a pin boy finally came to their relief, but the hold-up men had had time to get miles away.

BULLETS MERELY GOAD BULL

Fusillade From Rifles Fails to Kill Animal Purchased by Butchers and Heavier Arms Used.

Muncie, Ind.—A bull that apparently cares no more for bullets than it does for bee stings and that fairly eats the leaden pellets when they are fired into it for the purpose of converting it into beef, is the worry of a local firm of butchers. The animal, which is savage, is owned by J. M. Hartley, six miles north of here, and Hartley sold it to the butchers. For several days the bull has successfully resisted the efforts of eight men to kill it.

The first attempt to kill the animal was made recently when three employees of the butchering establishment, all heavily armed with rifles, went to the Hartley farm and began a bombardment. After they had fired a number of shots into the animal's head with no effect except to make it angry and paw the earth, the butchers became discouraged and came back to town for reinforcements. The following day two other butchers, armed with larger bore rifles, went to the farm and fired a dozen bullets into the bull. These seemed to annoy the animal somewhat, for it bellowed and ran to the rail fence where the "hunters" were sitting, causing them to make a hasty getaway. An express rifle will be used on the animal.

CIVIC LEAGUES FOR EVERY COUNTY SEAT

Circular Issued Suggests the Ways in Which Members May Help Plans

The Chairman of the Civic Department of the Kentucky Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Benjamin L. Banks of Richmond, with the help of her Committee and the President of the organization, Mrs. James A. Leach of Louisville, is making a strenuous effort this year to increase the number of civic organizations in the State of Kentucky.

It is hoped that these civic organizations will all become members of the Federation so that their strength may be united for the betterment of the entire State, in addition to the improvement aimed at in the local community of each one.

At present there are federated civic organizations of Women's Clubs in forty-seven of the county seats of the State. The President has gotten up a map of Kentucky in which each county seat having a federated organization is given a star. She will unveil this map at the coming annual meeting and hopes then that there will be added to the seventy-two county seats not at present starred. The slogan adopted is, "Help Us Star Our State."

A little circular is being issued by the civic committee suggesting the ways in which members of federated clubs can help.

The first suggestion is, organize a civic league or club in your town composed of women, or, better still, of both men and women.

Second. Organize junior civic leagues in your schools.

Third. If you can do neither of these, send to the chairman of the civic department or President of the State Federation the name of someone who may be interested in the work. By so doing you will help us star the State.

The object of every civic organization should be to keep its town beautiful, clean and beautiful.

WIFE'S HEALTH RESTORED

Husband Declared Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Would Restore Her Health, And It Did.

Ashland, Ky.—"Four years ago I seemed to have everything the matter with me. I had female and kidney trouble and was so bad off I could hardly rest day or night. I doctored with all the best doctors in town and took many kinds of medicine but nothing did any good until I tried your wonderful remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My husband said it would restore my health and it has."

Mrs. MAY WATT, Ashland, Ky.

There are probably hundreds of thousands of women in the United States who have been benefited by this famous old remedy, which was produced from roots and herbs over thirty years ago by a woman to relieve woman's suffering. Read What Another Woman says: Camden, N. J.—"I had female trouble and a serious displacement and was tired and discouraged and unable to do my work. My doctors told me I never could be cured without an operation, but thanks to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I am cured of that affliction and have recommended it to more than one of my friends with the best results."

Mrs. ELLA JOHNSON, 324 Vine St. If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Co. (confidential). Your letter will be answered by a doctor of confidence.

Woman's Age
A few years ago after a woman had passed thirty-five she was relegated to the bedside and she looked and felt old. She lived in her memory, and all the money that was spent for trills and follies was given to her mother; for mother, all was over. Suddenly awakened to the fact that after fifty she is at her best, and that her youth need not fade unless she wishes it.

Theater Etiquette
Columbus Journal.
A person who comes too late to a theater should remain in the foyer, if the play is on and remain there till the act is concluded, especially if he has a seat some distance down a row. By this late coming he compels others to stand while he passes, and thus he annoys a score or more people who have paid to see the show. It is neither good manner nor justice, thus to be indifferent to the enjoyment and rights of others.

RACE SUICIDE
Causes Decrease in the School Population of Ohio
"Is race suicide in Ohio responsible for the alarming decrease in attendance at the schools of the State during the period from 1902 to 1911?"

That is the question that State School Commissioner Miller has set himself to solve. Statistics prepared by his department show that in 1902 there were 1,245,393 pupils at attending school, in 1911 there were 1,226,897 or the rolls, showing a decrease of 18,496 in eight years.

A MEASURE OF MERIT

MAYSVILLE CITIZENS SHOULD WEIGH WELL THIS EVIDENCE
Proof of merit lies in the evidence. Convincing evidence in Maysville. It is not the testimony of strangers. But the endorsement of Maysville people. That's the kind of proof given here—The statement of a Maysville citizen.

William H. Paul, 333 East Third street, Maysville, Ky., says:
"For two years I had pains in my back and other troubles, caused by disordered kidneys. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention I began their use and they soon brought relief. I cheerfully recommend this remedy as one that lives up to the claims made for it."

The above statement was given on December 13th, 1904, and on February 6th, 1908, Mr. Paul said:
"My opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills has not changed since I first recommended them. My cure has been permanent and I am now in good health."

Deafness Cannot be Cured
by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflammation of the mucous lining of the Eustachian tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a running sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflammation of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 7c.

MORE LIGHT LESS COST

This is a time-proven fact—that electricity is the cheapest form of lighting when breakage, upkeep and time is taken into consideration. It is much easier to economize when you have only to touch a button than when you have to get a match, light a lamp, then possibly adjust the burner. Let us show you the difference, store or office and we will prove it.
